Certificate of Authenticity

This is to certify that G&L guitar serial no. 04067687 was built in the G&L factory on Fender Avenue in Fullerton, California, USA.

G&L was founded in 1980 by Leo Fender. His purpose was to provide musicians with instruments which reflected his latest thinking, and of a quality and standard of performance of which he could feel proud.

G&L stands for George and Leo, George being George Fullerton, Mr. Fender's close associate in guitar engineering since the late 1940's. Until his death in 1991, Mr. Fender, working closely with Mr. Fullerton, designed the instruments, created the methods and engineered many of the tools used in building G&L guitars and basses.

Leo Fender was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame and the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. He was, in the opinion of musicians all over the world, the most innovative and influential American designer of musical instruments in the 20th century.
