STARDATE 04.019.092

While passing through an uncharted region of the galaxy known as Egyptoner, the transportation cruiser "HAGGADA " was suddenly surrounded by an unusually heavy and violent ion storm. The storm was so powerful that the ship's power banks had become so depleted. As a result, all non-critical areas of the Haggadah were shut down, and only the most basic functions were kept active.

While checking the computer records for a solution to their dilemma, first officer Aaron came across a long forgotten entry in the logs of an earlier expedition which was known as the "FOREFATHERS." These sub-space log entries were picked up by accident during a routine space monitoring exercise.

It seems that the Forefathers expedition was traveling the universe in search of a new planet to colonize. As they reached the outskirts of the "Pyramid Nebula" they were surrounded by a force field. This force field stopped them from moving and a tractor beam started to pull them into the center of the Pyramid Nebula. It was impossible to break free and the force field seemed to be draining the ship's power at a very fast rate.

In order to not be crushed by the tractor beam, their last remaining energy was diverted to the shields and life support systems. Just as the last of the power packs were draining out, they were pulled into the atmosphere of a strange desert planet that seemed to be made entirely from sand.

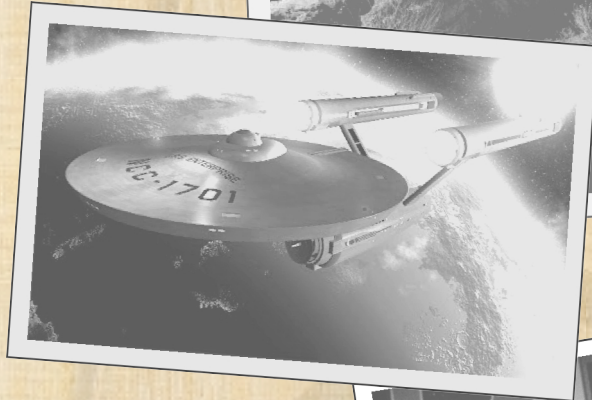

Their ship settled on the sand dunes in the hot sun. Hours passed. The crew opened the space doors to let in the hot air so that they could breathe, but they had to drop the shields so they could open the doors, and this left them vulnerable.

Then, without warning, an energy blast hit them!. All power was out and their weapons were neutralized. A regiment of guards surrounded the ship and the entire crew was taken to the capital city. Captain Moses demanded to see their captor's leader and an audience was granted.

Captain Moses was brought in front of Pharaoh - Emperor of The Pyramid Nebula. Captain Moses said, "I am Kirk T. Moses, Captain of the Forefathers expedition. Why are we forced to this planet? We are on a peaceful mission to find our home. You have no right to keep us here.

LET MY PEOPLE GO!"

As a result of these maladies, the Pharaoh's heart grew soft and he allowed Moses' nation to go free.

The slaves assembled and left the capital city. But once the Star Nation was gone, Pharaoh's heart grew hard again and sent his finest legion to bring them back. They pursued the Star Nation for two solar days. On the third day, Pharaoh's legion surrounded the Star Nation.

It seemed that all was lost for our heroes. In a last ditch effort, Captain Moses used the last bit of energy in his tricorder to summon beings from a far off edge of the universe. He called in the sand worms from the planet Dune! The giant worms came through the desert and parted the sand as though it was waves in the sea. As the Pharaoh's troops filled the opening, the giant worms released the sand and the troops were buried.

For forty years the Star Nation, led by Captain Moses, wandered through the desert in search of their spacecraft. They were kept alive by food packs of silicone Manna, which they had discovered in an ancient crumbling city.

The G.O.D. device, which Captain Moses still had, was now so low in energy that it could only be used to pull in old Buck Rogers Y.V. programs from Earth's pre-history. The main reserve bank of G.O.D. was needed to reactivate the dilithium crystals of their spacecraft. First Officer Aaron ran the inscriptions through their much more expanded language computer. It stated that G.O.D. could be reactivated by reciting these four questions:

1. Why is this stardate different from all other stardates?
2. On all other stardates we drink Rigellian brandy or Earl Gray tea (hot). On this stardate we drink only Earl Gray tea (hot). Why?
3. On all other stardates we eat either computer replicated food or fresh food. On this stardate we eat only fresh food. Why?
4. On all other stardates we use either transporter beams or shuttlecraft. On this stardate we use only shuttlecraft. Why?

After reading the four questions, the G.O.D. device started to whirl and hum and then came to life. First Officer Aaron used it to charge the depleted crystals and full power was restored to the star cruiser Haggada. "Take us home First Officer Aaron!"

Pharaoh laughed and replied, 'ha-Ha-Ha, you have no power here Captain. I am the ruler of this galaxy and it is my decree that your people are slaves of the Pyramid Nebula. You will never leave the sand dunes! ha-Ha-Ha!' Captain Moses replied, "Man - that really Sphinx!" And so it came to pass that for many astartate the Star Nation was kept in slavery, toiling daily in the intense heat from the three suns.

One day, as the slaves were building the twenty-eighthCorbomite pyramid, a crew member unearthed an an object buried in the sand. It was very old. They brought this object to Captain Moses. The Captain examined the object with a tricorder, which had been smuggled in with them many years earlier. The tricorder analysis showed the object to be a dormant energy channeling device. It channels energy from one dimension to another! Further analysis of the inscription on the side showed that it was called a Galacric Originon Distributor, or G.O.D. for short. Captain Moses realized this G.O.D. device was the key to their freedom.

Moses requested an audience with the Pharaoh. He went before the Pharaoh and told him, "Pharaoh - we have been enslaved by you for many years. We have built manyCorbomite pyramids. But the time has come for our nation to continue the search for our home.Pahraoh - you must let my people go! If not, you will suffer great punishment!"

Pharaoh thought that Kirk T. Moses was a fool to threatenhim with punishment! "Really now, just who are the slaves around here anyway?"

Captain Moses returned to his people and together they activated the G.O.D. device. And though G.O.D. it came to pass that ten interstellar disasters befell the Pharaoh and his people. They are:
